

Why Men also love Sea Pearls!

It's not just women that are embracing the new alternative sanitary product, Sea Pearls. The natural reusable sea sponge tampons are also becoming a hit with men, for one very important reason!

Sea Pearls are the new sanitary product being praised by UK women and media alike, they are a completely natural alternative to fibrous tampons containing no synthetic fibres. Sustainably harvested and reusable, they are the alternative to traditional sanitary protection and a must for all forward thinking women... And now it would seem men!

"Sea sponges are very handy. They're environmental, economical, healthy, comfortable and you can even wear them during sex!" says Deb Peters, Director Pure Balance, "Feedback from UK women has been positive and as for the men... Whilst Sea Pearls may even help fight the dangers synthetic fibres may have on sperm count, what they're really enthusiastic about is that they can still have sex with their partner during their period!"

The interest from men comes from the simple fact that unlike traditional tampons, Sea Pearls can be worn and are still effective during sex. They are regarded by most women as so comfortable that neither they nor their partner can feel them, ensuring that you can still enjoy an active and enjoyable sex life at any stage of your menstrual cycle. According to customer feedback, this even appears to be the biggest advantage for some users and worth the price alone!

Sea Pearls are now available from natural health food stores, independent chemists and beauty salons throughout the UK. Sea Pearls come in a pack of two sea sponge tampons with cotton storage bag and a fully illustrated brochure. They carry a recommended retail price of £7.99 and are reusable for up to six months or more. If you require any further information, please visit www.seapearls.co.uk.
